

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Over in Germany there appears to be a new spirit of life for the thirty Americans who continue to inhabit this particular spot on the globe. The center of the German sympathies is at Munich, according to circulars that are being received through the mail.

Numbers of Danielson citizens have received a communication with a stirring headline in red announcing "Here is Your Opportunity." The great majority of our good citizens selected for the honor will pass it up. It is the old Spanish prisoner game in a new form—an invitation to send money overseas for something one never would receive.

In this particular case the solicited Americans are invited to send money in United States currency, by the way—for materials and instructions for making beer, a variety of wines, liquors, etc. It is asserted in the circular that manipulation of the materials is so easy that a 14-year-old boy can execute them so it may be that the money sent will be used for something else.

Some who have received the circular have had a good laugh over it. Carl of Munich is a genial personage. He would relieve the thirst here. But he figures without his prospective customers. Some of his circulars have been turned over to bootleggers who probably are able to give him cards and spades in developing something with a kick out of something that he does not know about—and it can all be done right here at home without the long wait for an overseas shipment that might never come.

In this day and age the American who will drink is not at all a loss to get results in his own home town. Why send to Germany for a stinging when one of the home-made brands awaits the attention of any who would receive it? Carl of Munich promises to send over a package, for a dollar, that will make eight gallons of hooch. An ounce of some commodities that are being offered in this territory for half the price would keep a pilotless aeroplane aloft until the next presidential election—and that is just what is going to ruin the Munich prospective business in this country. And besides, no one drinks intoxicants here any more—though some do just as much.

A month hence another flood of money will be released to members of Thrift and Christmas Savings clubs in Danielson. The amount will be well over $50,000 this year and it will be made available for club members on or about December 15.

Treasurer Clifford H. Starkweather of the Danielson Trust company said on Wednesday that the Thrift club at that bank is already over the $50,000 mark and will increase approximately $2,000 more before the payment day arrives.

These clubs were first instituted in Danielson about half a dozen years ago and have grown in membership and amount of money paid out from year to year. Hundreds of those who are members of these clubs have joined them for the specific purpose of setting aside, week by week, during the year certain sums of money to be used exclusively for Christmas shopping. Danielson business men will profit materially by the release of the fortune in holiday club money. The bulk of it to be released will be spent within ten days after it

PUTNAM

The common council probably will elect a new mayor from among its membership at a special session of the body called to meet this (Thursday) evening. There seemed to be doubt on Wednesday as to whether Mayor Archibald MacDonald's successor will be Alderman-at-Large Victor Chappelaine or Alderman John G. Johnson, one of the veteran members of the council. Both are republicans.

In retiring from office at Tuesday evening's meeting of the council, Mayor MacDonald included in his farewell remarks a tribute to the present council as the best he has worked with during his long experience in city affairs.

E. P. Allen, 68, a resident of Pomfret for many years, died at his home in that place Tuesday. He had been engaged as a blacksmith and carriage maker. Death followed a period of failing health that extended through a number of years.

Mr. Allen had lived in Pomfret for 40 years and was a highly respected citizen. He was a member of the Pomfret church.

is paid out. The hope is that most of it will go into local trade channels and the business men who tell the public the most appealing story of their Christmas wares are bound to be the best position to command the flow of gold.

Not all the holiday club money will be spent. A percentage of it is set aside each year by thirty persons who have the joy of saving, but the release of over $50,000 in cold cash in Danielson two weeks before Christmas is bound to give local business a tremendous boost.

All of Danielson's banks have clubs. It has been stated here that the amount to be released will be well over $50,000. As a matter of fact the total may be between $60,000 and $70,000. Next four weeks will tell this accurately.

It is noted by the bankers that there have been fewer withdrawals of club money during the past twelve months than in the case last year, when industry suffered a slump. Business is better with the manufacturing concerns this year than in 1921, so the releases on Christmas clubs will be correspondingly higher.

Hunting rabbits by radio is to be introduced at East Killingly this fall, it reports from the section can be believed. This innovation is accredited to recent conferences between King George Jacques and members of the Pomfret Wheel club of Taftville.

Every hunter knows that it will be illegal to hunt the bunnies with a radio after another two weeks, so the radio is to be brought into play for this new purpose. King George says that if one can catch a butterfly or keep an aeroplane aloft with the aid of the radio, they can't stump him to successfully hunt rabbits with the same device.

When the king says a thing he means it. The king of the radio, he says, is expected to show the world just about Thanksgiving time—and the promise to put King George and all other such news centers to shame with their achievements.

Frank Barber, Danielson's premier bowler, has something to say to the other stars of the game in eastern Connecticut. This morning Barber says he has a part of $200 to post in support of his confidence of being able to defeat any bowler in the eastern part of this state in a home and home series.

It appears that the fever for match games has not developed so far this season, but Frank is right out in the forefront egging the other boys on around this corner of the state and begging them to come along and take his money.

His challenge includes the larger corners of Norwich and New London, also Putnam, and Putnam—and Western is not shut out if it cares to come in with a candidate. What is true of these towns also applies to Moosup, Jewett City or any other community that feels that it has a bowling exponent who cares to take Barber on. He's waiting for the first peep from any quarter in this corner of the state.

Wednesday evening the Danielson division of the Southern New England Telephone company was represented by a number of employees at the monthly meeting of the Putnam council of the Employees' association in that city. The Danielson party was made up of Mr. and Mrs. George Seaver, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Garland, William Gardner, Misses Elizabeth Dunn, Susie Collins, Mary Gier, Blanche Gauthier and Mrs. Abby Hopkins.

Mrs. William H. Chapman and daughter, Mrs. Ashley P. Mills of the West Side are to leave Sunday to spend the winter in Brooklyn.

Mrs. George A. Ferguson and daughters, Dorothy and Gladys, of Calcutta and San Diego, left Wauregan for Philadelphia Wednesday evening after a visit with relatives. Mrs. Ferguson contemplates making her home in England. The death of her husband occurred in India a number of weeks ago.

Martin Wolfe is employed as a night officer at Goodyear's where he is employed by the Goodyear Mills company.

Judge William Penner Woodward has recently recovered from a recent severe illness to resume his duties at his office.

Interest continues at high pitch in the pool and billiard tournaments at the Bohemian club, where scores of games have been played to date.

FORM MILL ASSOCIATION

IN EASTERN CONNECTICUT
(Special to The Bulletin.)
Danielson, Nov. 15.—Mill agents, superintendents, office managers, overseers and master mechanics to the number of 150, and representing all the mill towns between Mechanicville and Norwich, gathered at the Attawaugan hotel here tonight and formed the Eastern Connecticut Mills association.

A special dinner preceded the business session, the following being the menu: Tomato bisque, hotted rock oyster, egg sauce, potato natural, roast milk-fed chicken, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, turnips, boiled onions, pickles, omelet, ice cream, assorted cake, salades, cheese and coffee.

After the dinner, L. M. Carpenter, agent of the Ashland Cotton company at Jewett City, presided at the business session, at which a constitution and by-laws were adopted and the following officers elected: President, L. M. Carpenter, Jewett City; vice presidents, John F. Gardner, Jr., Danielson; N. L. Greig, Jewett City; William Deacon, Jr., Moosup; William Easton, Mechanicville; John T. Hanton, Putnam; secretary, James Coffey, Plainfield; treasurer, Henry White, Moosup; executive board, S. Parquette, Jewett City; Norman Parkhurst, Jewett City; Thomas H. Webster, Baltic; E. E. Rochette, Shetucket Co., Norwich; H. M. Borealy, Jewett City; John Lyons and James Walsh, Moosup; George P. Keen, Taftville; Lottay Bennett, Moosup; Everett E. Avery, Wauregan; J. T. McKenna, Mechanicville; W. F. Penny, Putnam; A. R. Boutlier, Versailles; John Green, Jewett City; William Deacon, Jr., Plainfield; entertainment committee, J. F. Gardner, Jr., chairman, Danielson; Charles Bragg, Central Village; Beetham Brown, Elmville; William Easton, Mechanicville.

The meeting was a very enthusiastic one and forecast a success of the new organization, which will meet from time to time throughout the year, and it is expected to promote closer business and social relations between the millmen of eastern Connecticut.

He was a deacon of the Pomfret Congregational church and a member of the Putnam lodge, A. F. and A. M. of Woodstock.

He leaves his wife and two sons, E. P. Allen, Jr., a student at Yale Medical college, and Henry H. who is engaged in the electrical business in Hartford.

Wednesday funeral services for Reuben Wright, 72, were held at his home here, Rev. J. C. Stoddard of the Baptist church officiating, and burial was in the family lot at Wauregan, R. I.

Mr. Wright's death occurred on Sunday. He had lived in Putnam for a long time and for 37 years had been an employee of the Putnam Foundry and Machine company. He leaves his wife and a daughter and a sister, Hannah A. Barton, of Riverside, R. I.

Mr. Wright was born March 13, 1850, in Westboro, Mass.

Representatives of office forces and departments in manufacturing concerns in this city and villages to the north were in Danielson Wednesday evening to attend a meeting at the Attawaugan hotel at which plans were put through for the organization of the Eastern Connecticut Mills' association. The organization is made up of office managers, overseers and other mill employees holding important positions, and is intended to bring the representatives of different manufacturing concerns in the Quinebaug valley into closer touch with each other both for business and social purposes. Mills located at different points along the Quinebaug river, from the state line to the north of this city were represented at the meeting.

The new organization is distinctive from the Eastern Connecticut Manufacturers' association, which includes mill agents and other officials in the same territory.

Some confusion seems to have been created in the mind of the public over the fact that Dr. E. Ken, dean of the city's physicians, has given up one of the rooms he has occupied as offices in the business center of the city. While Dr. Ken has vacated one room, the fact is that he will retain as heretofore his office headquarters at his old location.

Albert F. Ralston, editor of a local paper, is the new secretary of the Putnam Chamber of Commerce, succeeding Horatio Brown, who has very acceptably filled the office during the greater part of the present year.

Mr. Ralston comes into his new position.

tion with experience to aid him in the work he will have to do. Prior to coming to this city he was secretary of the Danielson Chamber of Commerce and handled the duties of his office very satisfactorily in that place.

In his position as secretary Mr. Ralston has become familiar with Putnam and its problems. His knowledge of the city and its affairs and his natural aptitude for progress will count materially in the work he will do for the organization he is now representing as secretary.

Trips to Taftville, N. Y., are included in some of the experiences that Putnam young men who drive automobiles are now competing for, and not a few of them are having their desire satisfied.

Freight service is such at the present time that many automobiles handled by an agency in this city are being driven over the road from the factory. Four cars arrived here via the overland route late Tuesday evening, and others are to be brought in during the week. The drivers go to New London, where the boat for New York and then travel by rail to Taftville, where the cars are turned over to them for the run back to Putnam. The drive home requires from 18 to 19 hours.

Thirty tons of structural steel are to be sent into the construction of the garage being built for the Putnam Motors, Inc. of this city. The new garage, which will have a 100 car capacity, is being built in the rear of the Donahue building. Steel that is to enter into it is expected to arrive here this week and will be put in place almost immediately.

Within the next few days the usual appeal for Thanksgiving offerings for the Day Kimball hospital will be issued. Nothing need be added to what has been said many times before at this time of year as to the needs of the hospital nor the tremendous amount of good accomplished there each year. It may be well to call attention, however, to the fact that the demands upon the hospital have increased from year to year and are now greater than ever. Those who can contribute this Thanksgiving time to their stores of vegetables, fruits, preserves and of groceries and many other things needed by the hospital will be doing a greater good than ever, and the hope is that the givers will be more numerous than ever before.

This (Thursday) evening at the Tourtelotte Memorial High school in North Grovesend a reception will be given the teachers of the town of Thompson by the school committee of that town. All residents of the town who are interested in schools and their work have been invited to be present.

Rachmaninoff, the Russian composer-pianist, who is to play in New London on Wednesday, November 22, wherever and whenever he plays attracts large and extremely enthusiastic audiences—he plays and conquers. No such impressive figure as Rachmaninoff has appeared before an audience in many a day.

His hearers feel the fitness of his touch, his great understanding and his sympathy with music—the soul of a devoted artist. In the interpretation of his own compositions one hears for the first time the foremost of living musicals, and is apparently master of every resource of his art, with the result that when he plays, one forgets the possible existence of technical difficulties—the evidence of true art.

Possessing great force and at times playing with great power, Rachmaninoff never goes beyond the limit of beauty in tone, nor sacrifices clearness to speed in his interpretation of the most familiar compositions every now and then there seems to be heard something never heard before. It is a great musical and a great pianist putting poetry and passion and soaring imagination into his interpretations.

The program that he will render in New London is the second number of the artist's concert series offered by Connecticut College. Ticket will go on sale at Childsey's Friday, November 17th. They are priced at $3.00, $2.50 and $1.50 reserved.

New Air-Cooled Car Being Made at Stamford, Conn.

Major Page, who heads the Victor Page Motors Corporation, an inventor, inventor, war veteran. He will be in Norwich on Thursday and Friday this week.

Victor W. Page, M. S. A. E., author of some 30 books and charts, president and chief engineer of the Victor Page Motors Corporation, automotive editor of Scientific American.

Victor W. Page, the inventor and designer of the Victor Page Motors Corporation, is an author, inventor and automotive engineer of international reputation. For about twenty years he has been actively identified with the automobile industry, and is now a recognized leader in the development of automotive engineering. He is the author of some thirty books and charts on automobile engineering, and has been an automobile engineer, trucker, tractor, motor boat, welding, etc., which are estimated to have reached over 10,000,000 readers and are universally used as text books. For the past six years he has been automotive editor of the Scientific American and has edited and contributed to other well known publications in the automotive field. During the war he was made chief aeronautical engineer of the largest aviation fields in the world.

He is eminently qualified to head a great motor manufacturing and marketing enterprise, not only because of his wide experience in automotive engineering, but also because of his thorough understanding of advertising, selling and modern business practices.

Associated with Major Page in the management of the corporation are men of wide experience in business and finance, each being especially qualified for the service he is to render his corporation.

The Norwich office of the Victor Page Motors Corporation is at room 213 Thayer building, where there is an exceptional display of the new improved air-cooled car of the new improved air-cooled car. Many local people have called at the office since opening, and Mr. A. V. Perrier, district manager, has been kept busy explaining the many patented features that go to make up this unusual automobile. The first showing in Norwich and vicinity of the Victor Page Aero-Type Four, will take place Thursday and Friday. Demonstrations will be given during the day and the car will be displayed at 15 Bath street, opposite Bailey's garage, Thursday and Friday evening.

FORESTERS' FAIR GRAND OPENING AT OLYMPIC HALL
All arrangements are now completed for the grand opening of the Foresters' fair tonight (Thursday) in Olympic hall. The committee has made a great transformation at the hall, so much so that on entering the place looks of different hues meet the eye. A radio message was received last night by the committee saying that the weather would be of the best for a parade, especially the kind that has red fire, and a brass band.

Yesterday the committee received a cablegram from Prince, Stead Greenough, better known as the "Rube Prince," saying that he had arrived in New York and would start at once for Norwich, and would establish his headquarters at Olympic hall, and that at 7:30 p. m. he would give the people of our city their first opportunity to gaze upon his majesty by parading with the rest of the good Foresters of the city and about 8:20 p. m. he will introduce to the assembly at the hall the world renowned Prof. Jarvis & Co., who will entertain the audience.

Some of the big features that have attracted the attention of the people during the past week are the hope chest that has been on exhibition in the show window of Porteous & Mitchell Co., all so the different articles that have been shown in the window of the new store of Schwartz Bros.

Louis W. Arny, Philadelphia, yesterday was re-elected president of the National Association of Leather Manufacturers at the opening session of the annual meeting in New York, George H. Blake of New York, was re-elected secretary.

At the Strand.
A striking example of Marshall Neilan's versatility in presenting on the screen anything from light comedy to heavy melodrama will be seen in Fools First, a First National attraction which starts a three day engagement at the Strand.

There is no deadly seriousness in the productions which emanate from this director's studios; one is always assured of something new if it is Marshall Neilan's drama. Each succeeding picture contains innovations in direction, settings and action, and revolutionary methods of photography and technique.

This is true especially of Fools First. It contains one of the most original stories it has ever been our pleasure to see on the screen, and it has been produced in such a clever and witty manner that it intrigues the observer and holds his attention without interruption.

All in all, Fools First is the type of picture which is worthy of that all-inclusive name "entertaining." Mr. Neilan has given further evidence of his genius in selecting the cast, which includes Claire Windsor, Claude Gillingwater and Richard Dix.

Fools First is a blend of perfect story, perfect acting and perfect direction. An educational Mermaid comedy entitled Look Out Below furnishes the laughs on the program and there are sure quite a number of laughs. The usual up-to-date Selznick News completes the program.

At the Broadway.
In reality there is no one act that is not a headliner at the Broadway for the last half of this week, where will be presented such very excellent B. F. Keith vaudeville acts.

Katherine MacDonald's newest Associated First National photoplay, which is being shown for the first time in this city at the Broadway theatre, where it begins a three-day engagement today, is entirely different in theme from any of that noted screen star's earlier offerings.

In this new picture Miss MacDonald has the role of the wife of a judge, a cold, ambitious, self-centered man, who has more his eye on the happiness of his wife than on the happiness of his wife. It is unjustly suspicious, as such men are prone to be, and he narrowly escapes losing his wife, his future happiness and the good will and respect of his friends and neighbors.

Domestic Relations will find an instant response in the heart of every person who has seen it because it is unusually true and human qualities.

Broad Theatre.
Alexander Dumas, considered by many book lovers as the greatest writer of fiction of all times, almost invariably uses the same characters in his stories; but in his classic Monte Cristo, to which has been made by William Fox into a super photo-production and which is now showing at the Broad theatre, Dumas drives from the theme of which he seemed to be the master, to that of the oppression of a soul that lived but to oppress other souls.

Though the story deals with a period in French history which abounds with dramatic incidents that well might serve as a plot for historical writing, it is the Napoleonic period, yet the writer was not tempted by such an alluring bait. Nevertheless the story is an absorbing one which grips the spectator and holds his attention to the very end.

The manner in which the leading character, Edmund Dantes, makes himself the instrument of retributive justice is so well done that even though his acts seem somewhat unholy, they cannot bring glory with him.

Christmas Shop Sale.
The Woman's Guild of the United Congregational church is to hold a Christmas Shop sale, Friday at the Community House, opening at 10 o'clock. In the evening, at 8 o'clock, a supper will be served and the sale continued. Many of the articles to be disposed of in the sale are now on display in the windows of the First-Congregational company, and include infants' and children's clothing, articles to delight a bride-to-be, comfort articles for the travelers, winter food decoration for the home, and novelties of various kinds, all of which will make a useful and suitable Christmas presents. Other articles that will be placed on sale include surprise boxes with favors for parties, wonder boxes to cheer the sick, many dolls and numerous other articles for Christmas giving.
